Dear Brothers and Sisters,

Working families won a big victory this past week when the Missouri House of Representatives failed to override Governor Nixon's veto of devastating Right-To-Work (for less) legislation. I want to thank my staff for their assistance and dedication but especially Brother Chad Stevenson who spent the summer educating our members about Corporate America's agenda to strip working families of the right to collective bargaining. Chad spent his time calling members and urging them to call and write their representatives to vote NO on the veto override. Fortunately, we had enough representatives on both sides of the aisle Democrat and Republican, to stand with workers and could not be bought by corporate greed.

The IAM has been fighting the influences of big corporate special interests to cut wages and weaken the middle-class across the country. The bipartisan vote exposes a weakening grip in Republican-held state houses where those deep pockets have been successful in passing anti-worker legislation.

Finally, thanks to all our members who contacted their representatives and voiced their opinion.

Fraternally yours,

Stephen McDerman
President Directing
Business Representative
